CURRENT WRITINGS ON PENNSYLVANIA

Compiled by NORMAN B. WILKINSON
Assistant State Historian

In presenting these selections from current writings on Pennsylvania history we are continuing the work of the publications of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, jointly sponsored by this Association. In addition to the useful volume already published, volume two of Writings on Pennsylvania History, covering the years 1943-1947 inclusive, will appear later this year or early in 1950.—Editor's Note.

I Articles in Periodicals

Agriculture in Berks County—Then and Now, by Charles S. Adams. Historical Review of Berks County, V. 14: July, 1949, 105-110.

Forgotten Highways of Transportation, by Stanley Gaines. Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs Bulletin, V. 17: No. 7, 1949, 3-8; No. 8, 8-11; No. 9, 3-10.

The Ironmasters of Marietta and Vicinity During the Period 1848-1878, by Bertha S. Gramm. Lancaster County Historical Society Papers, V. 52: No. 6, 1948, 137-167.

Easter Customs of Lancaster County, by Elizabeth C. Kieffer. Lancaster County Historical Society Papers, V. 52: No. 3, 1948, 49-68.

The King's Customs: Philadelphia, 1763-1774, by Alfred S. Martin. William and Mary Quarterly, V. 5, April, 1948.

The Home Front During the Civil War, by David Q. Voigt. Historical Review of Berks County, V. 14, July, 1949: 111-117.

II Books and Pamphlets of Interest to Pennsylvanians

III Fiction with Pennsylvania Background

The further adventures of Salalthiel Albine on the Pennsylvania frontier in the 1760's.

Philadelphia society and a lovely refugee.

Characterization of a power-mad industrialist and the consequences of his passion for wealth.

A novel utilizing suburban Philadelphia in the post-Civil War period for its setting.

A story of life on a Pennsylvania German farm about seventy years ago. Juvenile.

Set in the coal-mining area of western Pennsylvania with the Johnstown Flood as its climax.

A Pennsylvania and California setting.

French emigrés on the banks of the Susquehanna in the 1790's.

A novel based on the refuge planned for Marie Antoinette in northern Pennsylvania.

A teen-age novel with the housing problem as a theme. Set in Philadelphia and New Hope.
Character study of a youth's emergence into manhood.
Bucks County provides background.

Portrait of a town (Harrisburg?) and of a woman member of one of its leading families. Adult reading.

A novel of a young Philadelphia doctor of the 1880's.

Juvenile.

Juvenile.

Social customs pictured in a Philadelphia boarding house locale.