

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

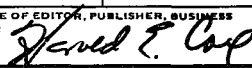

Roger Miller is a member of the faculty of the Department of Geography at the University of Colorado at Boulder. He received his doctorate from the University of Pennsylvania and has served as a research associate with the Philadelphia Social History Project.

Joseph Siry is a architectural student interested in the history of architecture and cities. He graduated from Princeton University magna cum laude in 1977, majoring in history, and hopes to complete a Master's of Architecture at the University of Pennsylvania in 1980. He worked as a research associate at the Philadelphia Social History Project in 1978 and received a Dales Travelling Fellowship for study in Europe in 1979.

Kenneth A. Radbill is a history instructor at the University of Arizona and in the Tucson Public Schools. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Arizona in 1971, with a major in American Colonial and Revolutionary History and a minor in Oriental Studies. He has done postdoctoral research in the Philadelphia area, and in Japan, and has previously published two articles, one in American History, the other in secondary education. The last history article, "Quaker Patriots: The Leadership of Owen Biddle and John Lacey, Jr.," appeared in the January 1978 issue of Pennsylvania History. Another article in the field of education will be published in the spring of 1979. He is currently continuing research in American Revolutionary History.
