EDITOR'S NOTE

After eight and a half years, I am stepping down as editor of Pennsylvania History. I am pleased to welcome Brian Black as my successor. Fall 2002 is the final issue I will assemble. I wish to thank all the people who have helped the journal financially and academically--the various folks affiliated with the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, the presidents and officers of the Pennsylvania Historical Association, the deans, heads and members of the history department and the College of the Liberal Arts at the Pennsylvania State University, the members of the editorial board, the referees, the energetic individuals who edited special issues, and most of all, the authors. Special thanks are due to the post offices of Middletown and State College, Pennsylvania, especially Kathy Robinson and James Rayner, for making sure the issues were mailed promptly and efficiently. Above all, thanks to our wonderful printers, Planks Suburban Press, under the leadership of David and Joan Davies, who handled a demanding job cheerfully and produced an accurate and attractive journal. Under my aegis, we have turned out 34 regular issues plus six special supplements for the McNeil Center for Early American Studies -- an even forty volumes.

With respect and affection for all of you, I am
William Pencak, former editor

The Pennsylvania Historical Association

The Pennsylvania Historical Association endeavors to stimulate scholarly activity and arouse popular interest in the Commonwealth's history. It sponsors Pennsylvania History: A Journal of Mid-Atlantic Studies, a publication series, and annual meetings held successively throughout the state.

Manuscripts and Reviews

The editor invites the submission of articles dealing with the social, intellectual, economic, political and cultural history of Pennsylvania and the Middle Atlantic region. Articles may reflect investigation of new areas of research or may reflect on past scholarship. Material that is primarily of an antiquarian or genealogical nature will not be considered.

Pennsylvania History publishes documents previously unpublished and of interest to students of the Middle Atlantic region. The journal also reviews books dealing primarily with Pennsylvania history or which shed significant light on aspects of the state's past.

Manuscripts must be submitted in three copies and should conform with the Chicago Manual of Style. Notes should be double-spaced and placed at the end of the manuscript. We encourage submission of manuscripts on discs. Please do not mail your discs until we have accepted your article and indicated corrections to be made.

News of meetings, projects, exhibits, manuscript collections and related matters should be sent to William Pencak at the address listed above.

Send books for review and names of individuals who wish to review for the journal to Paul Douglas Newman, Department of History, University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown, PA., 15904.
