

CONTRIBUTORS

JOHN M. CRAIG is a professor of history at Slippery Rock University. His research interests include civil liberties, violence, and pacifism. He is the author of Lucia Ames Mead and the American Peace Movement (1990).

DENNIS B. DOWNEY is a professor of history at Millersville University and president of the Pennsylvania Historical Association. His most recent book is 'We Sing to Thee': A History of Millersville University (2004). Downey is at work on a book-length manuscript entitled "The Summer of Our Discontent: Race, Riot, and Rights in Progressive America."

TIM HAYBURN is currently a graduate student at Lehigh University studying colonial American history. He is particularly interested in crime and punishment in the colonial mid-Atlantic region.

STEPHEN LABOVSKY grew up in Wilmington, Delaware and attended the London Film School, majoring in documentary filmmaking. He was an editor of independent films in the U.K., worked in advertising in London and New York City, and in 1994 established Full Circle Studios, Inc., in Wilmington. He has written and directed films for corporations and nonprofit organizations, including the Farnsworth Art Museum, the Wyeth Center, and the Israel Museum, Jerusalem. He is currently raising funds for a documentary about the Brandywine River, due out in 2006.

RANDALL M. MILLER is a professor of history and the William Dirk Warren '50 Sesquicentennial Chair at Saint Joseph's University. He is the author or editor of many books on such subjects as race, southern life and culture, popular mass media, and Pennsylvania. Among his current projects is a book on "Landmarks in Sports History."

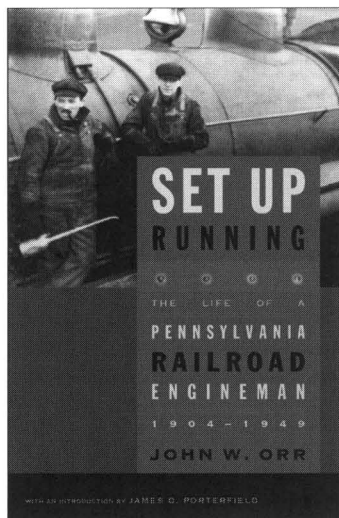

STEVEN S. ROWLAND is a radio producer/director who has won major awards in broadcasting including the Peabody Award, the Prix Italia, the CPB, & the Ohio State awards. His audio documentaries focus on John Coltrane, Miles Davis, Andy Warhol, Carlos Santana, The Neville Brothers, Patti LaBelle, George Clinton, The Roots, Frank Zappa and Leonard Bernstein. He has started and runs two companies, CultureWorks, Ltd., a non-profit, and SR Productions, Inc.

MICHAEL E. WEAVER is assistant professor of comparative military history at the U.S. Air Force Air Command and Staff College in Montgomery, Alabama. He completed his Ph.D. at Temple University in May 2002, having studied under Russell F. Weigley. Weaver is currently revising his dissertation on the 28th Infantry Division in World War II.

YOHURU WILLIAMS is associate professor of history and director of Black Studies at Fairfield University. He received his Ph.D. from Howard University in 1998 and is the author of Black Politics/White Power: Civil Rights, Black Power and Black Panthers in New Haven (2000) and A Constant Struggle: African-American History from 1865 to the Present, Documents and Essays (2002). His scholarly articles have appeared in The Black Scholar, The Journal of Black Studies, and The Black History Bulletin.

CONTRIBUTORS

SET UP RUNNING

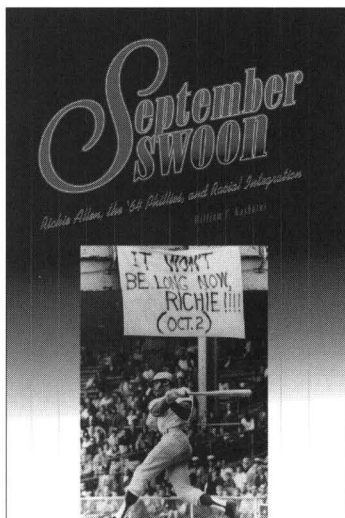

THE LIFE OF A PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
ENGINEMAN, 1904-1949

John W. Orr

"Set Up Running describes life in engine service as seldom told before. You will like it. The good and the bad, the long, long nights, broken knuckles, pulled couplers, firemen that don't know how to fire and don't want to learn, derailments, engines that won't steam, washouts—it's all here. Not only is this an unvarnished story of what engine service was really like but it is also a valuable sociological portrait of railroading seldom explored in this detail. This was a difficult book for me to lay aside. . . . You will enjoy riding with engineer O. P. Orr in this true story of running an engine in the days of steam."

—Robert E. McMillan,
The Lexington Quarterly

392 pages | 12 illustrations/3 maps | $24.95 paper
A Keystone Book

SEPTEMBER SWOON

RICHIE ALLEN, THE '64 PHILLIES, AND RACIAL INTEGRATION

William C. Kashatus

"This is a marvelous little book about a sliver of time in baseball's history. . . . Kashatus deals with the baseball issues with a seasoned journalist's eye and with the racial ramifications with a historian's sensibility (he is both a journalist and a professional historian). Smart baseball fans will want to read this book, though Phillies fans will probably cringe throughout, at both the failings of the team on the field and its even more substantial shortcomings on the question of race. Historians of modern America, race, and urban life will also find much of use in this relatively brief and largely successful treatment of September Swoon and its underlying ramifications."

—Derek Catsam, Virginia Quarterly Review

280 pages | 35 illustrations | $19.95 paper
A Keystone Book

New in Paperback

penn state press

820 N. University Drive, USB 1, Suite C | University Park, PA 16802 | fax 1-877-778-2665 | www.psupress.org

AVAILABLE IN BOOKSTORES, OR ORDER TOLL FREE 1-800-326-9180

THE MORAVIAN MISSION DIARIES OF DAVID ZEISBERGER

1772-1781

Hermann Wellenreuther
and Carola Wessel

"This edition of David Zeisberger's diaries and journals contains a cornucopia of ethnographic and historical information about the Delawares and neighboring tribes in the upper Ohio Valley during the Revolutionary era. The editors have done an excellent job of identifying and expanding our knowledge of many of the important figures from this period. This volume will be welcomed by any scholar interested in the early history of Ohio or western Pennsylvania—a most valuable addition to the collections of published primary materials on these subjects."

—R. David Edmunds,

University of Texas at Dallas

"David Zeisberger's diaries are a rich source for Native American and Moravian history. The 1772-1781 diaries remain largely untapped by American scholars because they have not been available in English translation. Publication of this modern scholarly edition, therefore, will have a major impact on the field of early American history."

—Daniel F. Richter,
University of Pennsylvania

David Zeisberger (1721-1808) was the head of a group of Moravian missionaries that settled in the Upper Ohio Valley in 1772 to minister to the Delaware Nation. For the next ten years, Zeisberger lived among the Delaware, involving himself not only in religious activities but also in political and social affairs. During this time he kept diaries in which he recorded the full range of his activities. Published in English for the first time, The Moravian Mission Diaries of David Zeisberger offers an unparalleled insider's view of Indian society during times of both war and peace.

This translation is based on the full scholarly edition of the diaries, which Wellenreuther and Wessel published in Germany in 1995. Publication of this volume will forever change the way we see the impact of the American Revolution on Indian life and on the Ohio country.

680 pages | 1 illustration/9 maps | $65.00 cloth
Max Kade German-American Research Institute series

penn state press

820 N. University Drive, USB 1, Suite C | University Park, PA 16802 | fax 1-877-778-2665 | www.psupress.org

AVAILABLE IN BOOKSTORES, OR ORDER TOLL FREE 1-800-326-9180