THE MOTTO OF THE
CAPTAIN WILLIAM CRISPIN ARMS

DUM CLAVUM RECTUM TENEAM (While I hold the tiller right) is from Quintilian (Institutio Oratoria, n 17) and is the phrase from which “Dum Clavum Teneam” (While I hold the tiller), the motto used by William Penn, the Founder, and his sons was taken. His grandsons used the full quotation, Dum Clavum Rectum Teneam. This is erroneously quoted in Burke’s General Armory and in Charles Norton Elvin’s Hand-book of Mottos, published in 1860 as Dum Clarum Rectum Teneam. How the error of the use of the word Clarum instead of Clavum occurred in these publications is unknown. The Romans used these words when they wanted to say they should do their duty, no matter what the result might be. Quintilian states that oratory is an art, that the speaker must not be judged by success alone but rather by the faithfulness with which he follows the rules laid down by that art. He says by way of explanation, “Nam et gubernator vult salva nave in portum pervenire, si tamen tempestate fuerit abieptus, non idem minus erit gubernator dicetque notum illud (For the pilot, also, desires safely to reach the harbor with his ship. If, however, storms prevent, he is none the less a pilot) and quotes the well known phrase “Dum Clavum Rectum Teneam.” In a broad sense the words mean, then, that men should be judged by their loyal, steadfast, and proper adherence to duty and not only by success, which might have been acquired through chance or good fortune. This has been presented in a very scholarly manner in the Pennsylvania Magazine, Vol VI, October, 1882, pp 485-486, by the late Prof Oswald Seidensticker, of the University of Pennsylvania.
CAPTAIN WILLIAM CRISPIN

By M. JACKSON CRISPIN, of New York City and of Berwick, Pennsylvania.

Captain William Crispin by his first wife, Rebecca (Bradshaw) Crispin, had issue:

1. WILLIAM, of whom nothing is known except that he was baptized on June 24th, 1653, as shown by the registers of the Church of St. Olave, Hart Street, London. He undoubtedly died young.

2. SILAS, concerning whom later.

John Blackfan, of Steyning, father of Edward, appears to have been a man of some position in his locality. He early joined the Society of Friends and suffered much persecution for his religion. Besse, in his "Sufferings" reports several instances. In 1659 John Blackfan was prosecuted in the Exchequer for twenty pounds for tithes of eight and a half acres, when all the corn that grew on his land was scarce worth half that amount. In 1662, he was committed to Horsham Gaol, on a writ de excommunicate capiendo, after prosecution in the Ecclesiastical Court for refusing to pay towards the repairs of the Steeple House. In 1663 he and the others were prosecuted in the Ecclesiastical Court for being absent from public worship, and he was excommunicated and some of the others imprisoned.
vania, his wife Gulielma Maria Penn, and their children Laetitia and Springett Penn attended the wedding and signed the wedding certificate. Edward Blackfan was a member of the Society of Friends, and like his father, came in for a share of the ill-treatment inflicted upon that Society. In 1681, he was indicted, with others, at Horsham Assizes, for absence from the national worship, and in 1684, for being present at some Quaker meetings at Steyning, according to Besse, he "was fined £7.18. which, at the persuasion of some Justices and others, he paid in order to Appeal, but when the Sessions came on, he found so little encouragement in prosecuting the same, that he chose rather to lose his money, than to be put to farther Charge."

Edward Blackfan intended to go to Pennsylvania and is spoken of in Penn's letters in 1689 as being about to take official documents to the Provincial Council, but when on the point of sailing, he died in 1690. His widow, with their son William afterwards went to Pennsylvania, in the same ship with Thomas Chalkley and other Friends, about 1700. She was a member of the Free Society of Traders in Pennsylvania, subscribing to £50 of its stock. On her arrival, her relatives, the Penns, sent her to take charge of their Manor of Pennsbury, in Bucks County, where she lived a number of years.

Edward and Rebecca (Crispin) Blackfan had one child:

An original vellum deed (in size 21 x 8½ inches) of gift for 500 acres of land in Pennsylvania to Ralph Crispin, as signed by his cousin William Penn, "Sixth Month Caled July" 25th, 1688, is in the collection of John Frederick Lewis, Esq., Vice President of The Historical Society of Pennsylvania. By his courtesy it is here printed and reproduced:

property, called Ballynrustigg in Kinsale, which evidently passed to him on his father’s death. George Crispin, constable of Clontead parish in 1718,84 who married Elizabeth Reynar in 1714,85 and Rebecca Crispin who married John Watts in 170486 were probably children of Ralph. Although the will of Ralph Crispin was destroyed during the troubles in Ireland, in 1922, yet the following abstract of it was previously secured (for which reason it is recorded here):

Will of Ralph Crispin, of Killcaha, Co. Cork, Gent. (Wills Diocese of Cork)
To son Silas Crispin 1/-
My worldly substance to be equally divided into three parts,—
To son Silas Crispin, one third of my substance and the same to be left in my executors hands until such time as he is lawfully divorced from Margret Goehin and after that to give him the lawful interest of it and no more till such time as he is married lawfully to another woman, but if said Silas Crispin do not as aforementioned, his part is to be taken from him and divided between the two parts as follows,—
To grand-daughter Ann Shaw, alias Watts, one third part of my substance.
To grandson Edward Watts, one third part.
To the three children of Ann Shaw, alias Watts, named John, Ralph and Ann Shaw £10 each, to be put to interest until they come to 21 years of age.
To sister Amy Wester, alias Crispin £6.
To son George Crispin’s children by name, Ann, Elizabeth and Rebecca Crispin, Ballyrussilge, if they can prove any right to it under my hand and seal, provided they pay £100 if they have a right to the said lands, that is, the two thirds of the same, said three children to give sufficient security to make good all leases, and contracts whatsoever that I am obliged to, and if they have no right to said land I give and bequeath my granddaughter Ann Crispin £10, Elizabeth Crispin £5 and Rebecca Crispin £5, said sum of £20 to be put out to interest till they come to the age of 21 years.

5. RACHEL, m. Thomas Armstrong. William Penn granted her one thousand acres of land in Pennsylvania; he regranted this to her husband, by a deed dated 11th mo., 2nd, 1694, in which he acknowledged having some years before granted the same to Rachael Armstrong, by the name of Rachel Crispin "which grant is mentioned to be lost in the Wars of Ireland," and therefore repeated it to Thomas Armstrong; five hundred acres to be disposed of for the support of him, his wife Rachel, and their child born, or children to be born, and the other five hundred acres to Silas Crispin, Samuel Carpenter, and Lasse Cock, in trust for Rachel Armstrong, her child, &c. At the meeting of the Board of Property held 6th mo., 1st, 1733, Samuel Mickle, of Philadelphia, requested a warrant for this one thousand acres, which was granted him, as it was shown that Rachel and her heirs had sold to Henricus Chapman, of London, who sold to Mickle. Thomas Armstrong and Rachel his wife, Robert Swiney and Jane his wife (one of the daughters of the said Thomas and Rachel), by deed dated May 15th, 1724, for forty pounds granted the said one thousand acres to Henricus Chapman, of London, who, together with George Armstrong, son and heir of Thomas and Rachel Armstrong, by deeds of lease and release, dated July 6th and 7th, 1731, granted the said one thousand acres to Samuel Mickle, of Philadelphia. At the meeting of the Board of Property held 4th mo. 15th, 1736, a patent was signed to Samuel Mickle for two hundred and fifty acres on a branch of the "Parkeawining," in right of Rachel Armstrong, formerly Crispin. On 8th mo. 2nd, 1731, James Buckley requested a grant of about two hundred acres on the branches of the Octoraro to build a mill. This was afterwards confirmed to him in right of Samuel Mickle’s purchase "made of the children of Captain Crispin," the minutes of the Board have it, but Mickle’s purchase was from only one child of Crispin’s.

Thomas and Rebecca (Crispin) Armstrong had issue:

Jane Armstrong, m. Robert Swiney (probably Sweeney):

George Armstrong, "son and heir."

Another child, or children (at least one daughter), name or names unknown.

Captain William Crispin was married, secondly, in 1665, at Kinsale, County Cork, Ireland, to Jane Chudleigh, daughter of John Chudleigh of that place, as has been shown. She was buried at Kinsale on March 28th, 1718. They had issue:

6. JAMES, see below.

7. JOSEPH, died unmarried, between 1687 and 1698, between the ages of seventeen and twenty-one years.

8. BENJAMIN, married (between 1698 and 1702) Alice.

9. JANE, m. (between 1687 and 1698) Greenslaid Lucomb. A Jane Crispin married by License in 1692 Robert Prince, possibly a first husband.

10. ELEANOR, d. unm. between 1687 and 1698, aged between seventeen and twenty-one years.

11. ELIZABETH, m. between 1687 and 1698, Millard: he died before 1702.

An Elizabeth Crispin married at Kinsale, August 25th, 1691, to Garrett Condon,—possibly a first husband.

12. AMY, married at Kinsale, May 20th, 1699, Daniel Jones.

William Penn, of his free gift, granted 8th August 1687 to James, Joseph, Benjamin, Jane, Eleanor, Elizabeth, and Amy Crispin, children of William Crispin by his second wife Jane (Chudleigh) Crispin, all minors at this time, 3000 acres of land in Pennsylvania, and named as Trustees Thomas Chudleigh, Martin Pierce and John Watts.

Fifteen hundred acres was to be sold for their “education, support, and settlement in life,” and it was stipulated that if any child should die prior to the age of 17, that its portion was to revert to the Proprietary. No return of the laying out of this land was sent to the Trustees, and none was sold by them, but Jane Crispin, although left in straitened circumstances by her husband, had herself paid for the education of her children. Therefore, William Penn granted to her, “Jane Crispin of Kinsale, widow,” November 22nd, 1696, this 1500 acres; an additional reason for this grant to her was, as stated in the deed, that Eleanor and Joseph had died after reaching 17 years and Jane, Elizabeth and James had married very well, while Benjamin and Amy were capable of supporting themselves. This land was afterwards inherited by her surviving children.

James Crispin married between 1687 and 1698 and removed from Kinsale to the Island of St. Christopher in the West Indies, where he became prominent in maritime affairs. He appears eventually to have obtained the entire 3000 acres above referred to, and while, according to the law of Pennsylvania, as eldest brother, he was entitled to two shares of it, each of his brothers and sisters receiving one share, it is not clear how he acquired the remainder of the property.

In an account of the disposition of this land among the Penn Papers in the possession of The Historical Society of Pennsylvania, it is stated that James' surviving brother and sisters Benjamin, Jane, Elizabeth, and Amy, by deed of May 10th, 1702, sold their rights to James, who died intestate, seized of three thousand acres, leaving issue. James Crispin's children were clearly considered the heirs of the whole three thousand acres, for about 1731 they sold all of their shares, aggregating this amount, to persons living in Pennsylvania, and their right was unquestioned until 1752, when a controversy arose about one of these sales. At this time, Thomas Penn wrote that he had in his possession a deed (Now owned by M. Jackson Crispin) of 1698, on which was endorsed a conveyance, dated July 30th, 1702, from Benjamin, Jane, Elizabeth and Amy, to Captain Arthur Smith, and that this appeared to be the original conveyance, thus they had not conveyed to their brother James. The reason for the conflict of these two conveyances is unknown; nevertheless it is certain that James Crispin's children were the actual owners of the property for their title was considered valid and accepted. It has been surmised that James Crispin had married a daughter (and possibly heiress) of Captain Arthur Smith, which could explain his possession of his brother's and sisters' rights, but as the name of his wife is at present unknown this is merely conjecture.

James Crispin was the Commander of the "St. George" Galley bound from Leghorne to London, loaded with a large cargo of merchandise. The "St. George" was attacked by two privateers and James Crispin so as to save the vessel, ran her ashore, on the island of Corsica, County of Laccindo in March 1711, which caused his ship to be badly damaged. Captain James Crispin, to save as much of the cargo, as possible, had to unload it in an unused barracks in the Gulf of St. Fiorenzo at Fornali nearby, and set up six cannon to guard it. While there, two large French privateers (galleys) strongly armed, and a galliot\cite{90} came into the bay and sent boats ashore for provisions. Before landing they promised the Captain Commander of St. Fiorenzo that they would not make any attack on Crispin's ship. However, when they arrived on shore they told Crispin that unless he made them very good terms for his ship and cargo they would burn his galley. Crispin told them that he would defend his goods at all hazards and if they decided to come that he was prepared for them. They attacked him and the fight lasted from two-thirty to four-thirty in the afternoon. The Fort of St. Fiorenzo and the Tower of della Mortella joined with Crispin, and beat off the privateers in a hot fight. Crispin’s battery fired so often that all of his six cannon were discharged every seven and a half minutes. Crispin’s boat was repaired in due course and proceeded to its destination. Depositions concerning this matter were taken at Leghorne, and have been translated from the Italian.

James Crispin had issue,—
Arthur Smith commanded merchant ships.
Prudence, m... Smith, of St. Christopher, 1752.
James, drowned off St. Christopher in a hurricane, 1731, died intestate, under 21 years, probably unmarried.
Richard, living in 1733.
Elizabeth, m.. Harris, living in St. Christopher, 1752.
Michael, living in Kingston, Jamaica, in 1751.
Joseph and Michael sold April 7th, 1752, to Thomas James, Jr., of the City of Philadelphia seven hundred and fifty acres of land, being their share of the three thousand acres given by William Penn, the Proprietor, to their grandmother, Jane (Chudleigh) Crispin.
