In Memoriam

MALCOLM LLOYD, JR.

It was with deep regret that the Society learned of the sudden death, on July 27, 1949, of Malcolm Lloyd, Jr. Mr. Lloyd had been an active and devoted member of the Society since 1898; he became a Councillor in 1944, serving on the Committee on Hall and Buildings.

Mr. Lloyd was for many years on the Board of the Pennsylvania Hospital, of which he was a Vice-President, and gave most of his time and energy to that institution. His interests, however, were varied, and among the many positions which he held, he was Vice-President of the Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania, Director of the University Museum and the Franklin Institute, and Rector’s Warden of St. Luke and The Epiphany Church. In addition, he was actively interested in archaeological research, particularly in the western United States, Guatemala, and the Near East.

Mr. Lloyd was a cultured gentleman, widely read and traveled, a tireless and efficient worker in many fields—Science, Law, the Church, History, the Hospital, Archaeology. The individuals and organizations with which he was associated benefited by his well-considered, deliberate judgment, support, and courteous co-operation. His loss will be keenly felt.
