WILLIAM H. WILLIAMS earned his Ph.D. degree at the University of Delaware, where he is an Assistant Professor of History in the College Parallel Program in Georgetown, Delaware. He is working on a book-length monograph on the first hundred years (1751-1850) of the Pennsylvania Hospital.

HARRY C. SILCOX, who earlier in the year contributed an article on Jacob C. White, Jr., is a Vice-Principal at Lincoln High School, Philadelphia.

HOLMAN HAMILTON, Professor of History at the University of Kentucky, is the author of a two-volume biography of Zachary Taylor and of Prologue to Conflict: The Crisis and Compromise of 1850. He is now writing a biography of Claude G. Bowers.

JAMES L. CROUTHAMEL is Professor of History at Hobart and William Smith Colleges. He received his Ph.D. from the University of Rochester and is the author of James Watson Webb. Currently, he is completing a study of "James Gordon Bennett and the Rise of the Popular Press."

NICHOLAS B. WAINWRIGHT is Director and Editor of The Historical Society of Pennsylvania.

LAWRENCE J. MURRAY, a Michigan State University Ph.D., is an Assistant Professor of History at the State University of New York College at Fredonia. He is engaged in a book-length study of Andrew W. Mellon's administration of the Treasury Department, 1921-1932.
