Contributors

ALISON GILBERT OLSON is Professor of History at the University of Maryland, College Park. Her special interest is in the North Atlantic World during the early modern period. She has recently published a book, Making the Empire Work.

JAMES F. O'GORMAN is Grace Slack McNeil Professor of the History of American Art at Wellesley College. He has written extensively on the nineteenth-century architecture of the United States in general and of Philadelphia in particular. The present article grows out of his ongoing study of American architectural drawings.

NINA DE ANGELI WALLS is a doctoral candidate in American social and cultural history at the University of Delaware. Her dissertation will examine issues in the development of Philadelphia's distinctive matrix of educative institutions, using the School of Design for Women between 1848 and 1932 as a case study.

CLAIR W. KELLER holds a joint appointment in the Departments of History and Curriculum & Instruction at Iowa State University where he teaches early American history and history/social science methods.

SYDNEY HART, historian at the National Portrait Gallery, Smithsonian Institution, and deputy editor of The Peale Family Papers, is currently working on a book about Charles Willson Peale and the transformation of the patriarchal ideal in a democratic society.

THE PENNSYLVANIA MAGAZINE OF HISTORY AND BIOGRAPHY is published each quarter in January, April, July, and October by THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF PENNSYLVANIA, 1300 Locust Street, Philadelphia, PA 19107. Yearly Subscription: individual, $30; institutional, $35; single numbers, $9.50 + $1.50 postage. Back issues of the PMHB are also available in microform from University Microfilms International, 300 N. Zeeb Road, Ann Arbor, MI 48106. All communications should be addressed to the Editor. Articles submitted for publication should be sent to the Editor in duplicate and should conform to the University of Chicago Press Manual of Style. Manuscripts will not be returned unless accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The Editor does not assume responsibility for statements of fact or of opinion made by the contributors.
