Contributors

JOHN F. BAUMAN, an urban historian, is a visiting research professor at the University of Southern Maine. He is the author of Public Housing, Race, and Renewal: Urban Planning in Philadelphia, 1920–1974 (Temple University Press, 1987) and, most recently, Gateway to Vacationland: The Making of Portland, Maine (University of Massachusetts Press, 2012).

GAIL RODGERS MCCORMICK is a recently retired archivist and special collections librarian, currently operating her own history and genealogy research service. She has been researching the history of the New Jerusalem Church of Frankford for many years and is now writing the narrative of this unique congregation.

ANNE A. VERPLANCK is an associate professor of American studies and heritage studies at Penn State, Harrisburg. Prior to accepting that position, her thirty-year museum career included serving as the curator of prints and paintings at Winterthur Museum. She has written about and curated exhibits on topics related to eighteenth- and nineteenth-century American art and history.
