

EXPLORING THE STATUS OF FEMALE FACULTY AND RESEARCH SCIENTISTS

Moderator: Carmen B. Cannon , Ed.D.
Assistant Dean for Student Services
School of Engineering
Howard University

In her current position at the Howard University School of Engineering in Washington, DC, Dr. Cannon is responsible for administering the Office of Student Services, which provides comprehensive support services to engineering undergraduates. She received her Ed.D. in Higher Education from the George Washington University and her bachelors and masters degrees from Howard University. Prior to joining the School of Engineering in 1972, Dr. Cannon served at the U.S. Library of Congress as a technical writer/editor for the NASA chronology, Astronautics and Aeronautics.

Dr. Cannon has had extensive experience in all aspects of undergraduate student services, and has published and presented on topics related to student development and diversity issues. She serves as Co-PI for the Howard University component of the NSF-sponsored Engineering Coalition of Schools for Excellence in Education and Leadership (ECSEL) and serves on the board of directors for NAMEPA and WEPAN.

Presenters: Mary Ann Evans, Ph.D.
Assistant to Provost and Director, Program for Women in Science and Engineering
Iowa State University

Jennifer Lisauskas
Student
Worcester Polytechnic Institute

Maryka Bhattacharyya, Ph.D.
Senior Biochemist
Argonne National Laboratory

Judy Franz, Ph.D.
Executive Officer
American Physics Society

