

WOMEN AND MINORITY FACULTY: WHY SO FEW?
-----------------------------------------------------------

Moderator

Barbara B. Lazarus, Ph.D.
Associate Provost for Academic Projects and Adjunct Associate Professor of Educational Anthropology
Carnegie Mellon University

Barbara B. Lazarus, Associate Provost for Academic Projects and Adjunct Professor of Educational Anthropology at Carnegie Mellon University, is responsible for university wide academic policies and support programs. Her most recent books are The Equity Equation (with C.S. David, A. Ginorio, C. Hollenshead and P. Rayman, Jossey Bass, 1996) and Journeys of Women in Science and Engineering; No Universal Constants (with S. Ambrose, K. Dunkle, I. Nair and D. Harkus, Temple University Press, Spring 1997.)

Presenters

Marilyn J. Baker
Associate Executive Director
Scientific and Engineering Personnel
National Research Council

Judy Jackson
Staff Intern, Office of the Provost
Massachusetts Institute of Technology

