

UNDERGRADUATE RETENTION ISSUES FOR WOMEN IN S&E

Moderator

Jan Rinehart

Director, Women in Engineering, Science and Technology Program
Texas A&M University

Jan Rinehart is currently the Director of the Women in Engineering, Science, and Technology Program in the College of Engineering at Texas A&M University. She holds a BS in Education (1974) from Abilene Christian University and is in progress on a Masters in Educational Administration at Texas A&M University. She also serves as a program coordinator in the Minority Engineering Program at Texas A&M.

Jan is as member of the Women in Engineering Program Advocates Network (WEPAN). She has served on the Speaker's Committee and is Co-chair for the National Conference in 1998. She is also active in the National Association for Minority Engineering Program Administrators (NAMEPA). She is Chair of the Region D, and on conference planning committees for regional conferences in San Antonio, Texas (1996), San Juan, Puerto Rico (1994), and El Paso, Texas (1992). She was Program Chair for the Texas Symposium on Engineering, Mathematics and Science Education Partnerships for Minorities and Females in 1993.

Presenters

Julie Anne Schuck

Research Support Specialist
Women's Program in Engineering
Cornell University

Jane Margolis, Ph.D.

Visiting Research Scientist
Carnegie Mellon University

Discussant

Jo Sanders

Research Professor
University of Washington

