NEW & COMING SOON

Meadowcroft's Frontier Farm

Ongoing

Meadowcroft staff are developing an area to illustrate life in the upper Ohio Valley after European settlement. The 18th-century Frontier Farm complements the museum's 16th-century Indian village, where visitors get a glimpse of life before Europeans arrived, and the 19th-century village, which recreates the charming qualities of an upper Ohio Valley village. The new area will contain a settler's log cabin as well as a cabin representing the home of an Indian family. Meadowcroft is open Wednesdays through Sundays through Labor Day. The area and the associated educational programming are generously funded by a grant from the Claude Worthington Benedum Foundation.
