Pittsburgh Recast

Through September 7, 2008
Fourth Floor Community Gallery

This juried exhibition produced by the Pittsburgh Society of Illustrators for their 10th anniversary helps usher in Pittsburgh's 250th anniversary using artwork that shows Pittsburgh's transformation from smoky city to innovative, modern metropolis.

With more than 50 works created by the region's top illustrators, Pittsburgh Recast provides a glimpse of famous Pittsburghers such as Billy Conn and Andy Warhol, celebrates today's city skyline, and looks into what the future may hold for our region.

This imagined kiss in Jen Scanlon's "match.com" offers a fun, yet poignant historical contrast between two iconic figures.
